Kurak Alliance Tarakian Sulan Class Cruiser

To the galactic north of the Aquan Sebrutan lies a long, narrow line of star systems the Terrans call the Harrison belt. Mineral-rich but poor in liquid water, the Belt is home to this quadrant's most mysterious inhabitants: the Tarakians. Despite their lack of expansionist interest, Tarakian fleets have been encountered throughout known space. They have been known to mount fierce attacks on corsairs and other raiders; many a convoy has had reason to thank the intervention of the 'Watchmen of the Stars'. Tarakian weaponry is formidable indeed, appearing to work by creating strong gravity distortions around and within their victims.
